

Troilus and Cressida.

He send the soole to Ajax, and desire him
T'invite the Trojan Lords after the Combat
To see vs here vnarm'd: I haue a womans longing,
An appetite that I am sicke withall;
To see great Hector in his weedes of peace; Enter Thersites.
To talke with him, and to behold his visage,
Euen to my full of view. A labour sau'd.

Ther. A wonder.

Achil. What?

Ther. Ajax goes vp and downe the field, asking for himselfe.

Achil. How so?

Ther. Hee must fight singly to morrow with Hector, and is so prophetically proud of an heroicall cudgelling,
that he raues in saying nothing.

Achil. How can that be?

Ther. Why he stalkes vp and downe like a Peacock, a stride and a stand: ruminates like an hollse, that hath no Arithmatique but her braine to set downe her reckoning: bites his lip with a politike regard, as who should say, there were wit in his head and two'd out; and so there is: but it lyes as coldly in him, as fire in a flint, which will not shew without knocking. The mans vndone for euer; for if Hector breake not his necke i'th' combat, heele break't himselfe in vaine-glory. He knowes not mee: I said, good morrow Ajax; And he replies, thanks Agamemnon. What thinke you of this man, that takes me for the Generall? Hee's growne a very land-fish, languagelesse, a monster: a plague of opinion, a man may weare it on both sides like a leather Ierkin.

Achil. Thou must be my Ambassador to him Thersites.

Ther. Who, I: why, heele answer no body: he professes not answering; speaking is for beggers: he weares his tongue in's armes: I will put on his presence; let Patroclus make his demands to me, you shall see the Pageant of Ajax.

Achil. To him Patroclus; tell him, I humbly desire the valiant Ajax, to inuite the most valorous Hector, to come vnarm'd to my Tent, and to procure safe conduct for his person, of the magnanimous and most illustrious, fixe or seauen times honour'd Capitaine, Generall of the Grecian Armie Agamemnon, &c. doe this.

Patro. Ioue blesse great Ajax.

Ther. Hum.

Patro. I come from the worthy Achilles.

Ther. Ha?

Patro. Who most humbly desires you to inuite Hector
to his Tent.

Ther. Hum.

Patro. And to procure safe conduct from Agamemnon.

Ther. Agamemnon?

Patro. I my Lord.

Ther. Ha?

Patro. What say you too'r.

Ther. God buy you with all my heart.

Patro. Your answer sir.

Ther. If to morrow be a faire day, by eleuen a clocke it will goe one way or other; howsoeuer, he shall pay for me ere he has me.

Patro. Your answer sir.

Ther. Fare you well withall my heart.

Achil. Why, but he is not in this tune, is he?

Ther. No, but he's out a tune thus: what musicke will be in him when Hector has knockt out his braines, I know not: but I am sure none, vnlesse the Fidler Apollo get his finewes to make catlings on.

Achil. Come, thou shalt beare a Letter to him straight.

Ther. Let me carry another to his Horse; for that's the more capable creature.

Achil. My minde is troubled like a Fountaine stir'd,
And I my selfe see not the bottome of it.

Ther. Would the Fountaine of your minde were cleere againe, that I might water an Ass at it: I had rather be a Ticke in a Sheepe, then such a valiant ignorance.

Enter at one doore Aeneas with a Torch, at another
Paris, Diophras, Antenor, Diomed the Grecian, with Torches.

Par. See hoa, who is that there?

Diophr. It is the Lord Aeneas.

Aene. Is the Prince there in person?

Had I so good occasion to lye long
As you Prince Paris, nothing but heauenly businesse,
Should rob my bed-mate of my company.

Diom. That's my minde too: good morrow Lord
Aeneas.

Par. A valiant Greeke Aeneas, take his hand, Witness the proceesse of your speech within;
You told how Diomed, in a whole weeke by dayes
Did haunt you in the Field.

Aene. Health to you valiant sir,
During all question of the gentle truce:
But when I meete you arm'd, as blacke defiance,
As hea. can thinke, or courage execute.

Diom. The one and other Diomed embraces,
Our blouds are now in calme; and so long health;
But when contention, and occasion meetes,
By Ioue, Ile play the hunter for thy life,
With all my force, pursuite and pollicy.

Aene. And thou shalt hunt a Lyon that will flye
With his face backward, in humane gentlenessse:
Welcome to Troy; now by Anchises life,
Welcome indeede: by Venus hand I sweare,
No man aliue can loue in such a sort,
The thing he meanes to kill, more excellently.

Diom. We sympathize. Ioue let Aeneas liue
(If to my sword his fate be not the glory)
A thousand compleate courses of the Sunne,
But in mine emulous honor let him dye:
With euery ioynt a wound, and that to morrow.

Aene. We know each other well.

Diom. We doe, and long to know each other worse.

Par. This is the most, despitifull, ft gentle greeting;
The noblest hatefull loue, that ere I heard of.
What businesse Lord so early?

Aene. I was sent for to the King; but why, I know not.

Par. His purpose meete you; it was to bring this Greeke
To Calchas's house; and there to render him,
For the enfrued Antenor, the faire Cressida:

Lers haue your company; or if you please,
Haste there before vs. I constantly doe thinke
(Or rather call my thought a certaine knowledge)
My brother Troilus lodges there to night.

Rouse him, and giue him note of our approach,
With the whole quality whereof, I feare
We shall be much vnwelcome.

Aene. That I assure you;

Troilus had rather Troy were borne to Greece,
Then Cressida borne from Troy.

Par. There

Troilus and Cressida.

Par. There is no helpe:
The bitter disposition of the time will haue it so.
On Lord, weele follow you.

Aene. Good morrow all.

Par. And tell me noble Diomed; faith tell me true,

Euen in the soule of sound good fellow ship,

Who in your thoughts merits faire Helen most?

My selfe, or Meneclaus?

Diom. Both alike.

He merits well to haue her, that doth seeke her,

Not making any scruple of her soylure,

With such a hell of pame, and world of charge.

And you as well to keepe her, that defend her,

Not pallating the taste of her dishonour,

With such a costly losse of wealth and friends:

He like a puling Cuckold, would drinke vp

The lees and dregs of a flat tamed peece:

You like a lecher, out of whorish loynes,

Are pleas'd to breede out your inheritors:

Both merits pay'd, each weighs no lesse nor more,

But he as he, which heavier for a whore.

Par. You are too bitter to your country-woman.

Diom. Shee's bitter to her country: heare me Paris,

For euery false drop in her bandy veines,

A Grecians life hath sunke: for euery scruple

Other contaminated carrion weight,

A Trojan hath becme slaine. Since she could speake,

She hath not giuen so many good words breath,

As for her, Greekes and Troians suffred death.

Par. Faire Diomed, you doe as chapmen doe,

Dispraise the thing that you desire to buy:

But we in silence hold this vertue well;

Weele not commend, what we intend to sell.

Here lyes our way. Exeunt.

Enter Troilus and Cressida.

Tro. Deere trouble not your selfe: the morne is cold.

Cres. Then sweet my Lord, he call mine Vackle down;

He shall vnbolt the Gates.

Tro. Trouble him not:

To bed, to bed: sleepe kill those pritty eyes,

And giue as soft attachment to thy senses,

As Infants empty of all thought.

Cres. Good morrow then.

Tro. I prithee now to bed.

Cres. Are you a weary of me?

Tro. O Cressida! but that the busie day

Wak't by the Larke, hath rous'd the ribauld Crowes,

And dreaming night will hide our eyes no longer:

I would not from thee.

Cres. Night hath becne too briefe. (Stays.)

Tro. Beshrew the witch! with venomous wights she

As hideously as hell; but flies the graspes of loue,

With wings more momentary, swift then thought:

You will catch cold, and curse me.

Cres. Prithee tarry, you men will neuer tarry;

O foolish Cressida, I might haue still held off,

And then you would haue tarried. Harke, ther's one vp?

Pand. within. What's all the doores open here?

Tro. It is your Vackle. Enter Pandarus.

Cres. A pestilence on him: now will he be mocking:

I shall haue such a life.

Pand. How now, how now? how goe maiden-heads?

Heare you Maide: wher's my cozin Cressida?

Cres. Go hang your self, you naughty mocking Vackles:
